Foreword

The United Nations Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 1325 on Women, Peace and Security, adopted in October 2000 specifically recognizes the needs, rights, experiences and role of women in the areas of armed conflict, peace building and peace keeping. The Resolution paves the way and provides for the active participation of women in all aspects of conflict prevention, peace negotiations, peacekeeping, peace building and post-war reconstruction.

Ghana, as a Member State of the United Nations, and by the adoption of UNSCR 1325, is obliged to prepare a country specific National Plan of Action (NPA) for the implementation of the Resolution. The Resolution is in line with the Beijing Platform for Action strategy objective on Women, Peace and Conflict Resolution and Management as well as the various Conventions, Treaties, Resolutions, Protocols, Policies and Legal Frameworks of the African Union (AU), and the International Community that Ghana has ratified.

Although Ghana has not experienced armed conflicts of grave humanitarian consequences, there have been a number of violent ethnic conflicts with adverse impacts on especially women and girls which make it absolutely appropriate for the implementation of UNSCR 1325 in Ghana. This is coupled with the fact that Ghana is involved in the maintenance of international Peace and Security by contributing troops to different peace support and peacekeeping operations.

The relevance of a Ghana National Action Plan for the implementation of Resolution 1325 in particular and ultimately for the maintenance of both National and International Peace and Security in general is therefore guided by the experience of localised pockets of intra-state conflicts which are mainly characterized by chieftaincy and land disputes as well as its multilateral co-operation and active participation in several international peace keeping operations within the United Nations (UN), the African Union (AU) as well as the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS).

Ghana's National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325 is based on three pillars, namely, "Protection and Promotion of the Human Rights of Women and Girls in Situations of Conflict and in Peace Support Operations", "Participation of Women in Conflict Prevention, Peace and Security Institutions and Processes", and "Prevention of Violence against Women including Sexual, Gender-Based and Conflict related Violence".

For the effective implementation of, and accountability to the National Action Plan, strategies regarding monitoring and evaluation, coordination and communication, and reporting have been included as cross cutting issues for all the three pillars. We wish to use this opportunity to commend all the relevant Ministries, Departments and Agencies (MDAs), Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) and our Development Partners whose contributions by way of ideas, experiences, time, effort, expertise, moral and financial support has made the preparation of the National Plan of Action possible.

As a Government, we are committed to the effective implementation of the Ghana National Action Plan on United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women Peace and Security and assure all of our leadership in this process.

The Ministry of Women and Children's Affairs (MoWAC) appreciates the continuous support and co-operation it enjoys from all the people of Ghana, especially women. This support has again been demonstrated throughout the process of the development and drafting of the National Action Plan for the Implementation of the United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325.

We are grateful for the inputs and support received for this process from the Security Sector; other Ministries, Department and Agencies (MDAs) including the Ministries of Defence, Foreign Affairs, Interior and Information; Traditional Leaders; Non-governmental Organisations (NGOs) including Women's Groups and Faith-based organizations.

We highly applaud and acknowledge the dedication and commitment of the institutions that contributed to the process of the development of the Ghana National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325, namely: the National Peace Council, the Kofi Annan International Peacekeeping Training Centre (KAIPTC), the Women Peace and Security Network Africa (WIPSEN-Africa), the Women's Peacemakers Program of the West Africa Network for Peacebuilding (WPP/WANEP), and the Foundation for Security and Development in Africa (FOSDA).

In addition, we would like to appreciate the following individuals and their respective institutions for the tireless efforts put into the completion of the Ghana National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325: Mr. Baffour Amoah of the West African Action Network on Small Arms (WAANSA), Ms Naa Atwei V. Owusu of the Ark Foundation, Mrs. Cynthia Asare Bediako of the Ministry of Defence (MoD), Mrs. Afua Addotey of the Federation of Women Lawyers (FIDA), Mrs. Diana Afriyie Addo of Ministry of Trade and Industry (MOTT), Mrs. Patricia Dovi Sappmson of Ministry of Communication (MoC), Ms. Victoria Aniaku of Ministry of Food and Agriculture / Women in Agricultural Development (MOFA/WIAD), Ms. Divina Seanedzo of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs/MoWAC, Ms. Francisca Atuluk of MoWAC, Mr. Robert Mensah and Mr. Gilbert Otchere of the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning (MOFEP).

We also acknowledge the technical expertise of our resource persons, Mrs. Joana Opare (an International Gender and Development Consultant) and Ecoma Alaga (a Gender, Peace and Security Expert).

The Government of Ghana further acknowledges with appreciation the support of the UN system (UNDP, UNFPA and UNIFEM) for their financial and administrative support.

Our special gratitude goes to the Minister of Women and Children's Affairs, Honourable Juliana Azumah - Mensah for facilitating the process to its conclusion, as well as the former Minister, Honourable Akua Sena Dansua, for beginning the process. We also appreciate the tireless efforts of the former Director (International Women Desk) MoWAC, Mrs. Marian A. Tackie, and the current Deputy Director of Gender Unit, Ms. Dorothy Omny, in making the Ghana National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325 a reality.

Executive Summary

Ghana has been described as an “Island of peace” in the midst of turbulent sister states in Africa due to the eighteen years of uninterrupted democratic dispensation and our pride in the practice of good governance.

However, Ghana has experienced its own share of intra-state conflicts mainly due to chieftaincy and land disputes and the National Security Council has estimated the number of chieftaincy and uncountable land disputes across the country to be over two hundred. Prominent chieftaincy conflicts have been recorded in Dagbon, Bimbila, Kpandai, Daboya in the Northern Region, Zaare and Bawku in the Upper East Region, Wa in the Upper West Region, Anloga in the Volta Region, Techiman and Brekum in the Brong-Ahafo Region, Sewfi Wiaso in the Western Region, Accra- Ga and Gbese Mantse in the Greater Accra Region. Some Land Disputes also noted include areas and townships such as Alavanyo/Nkonya in the Northern part of the Volta Region, Ablekuma and Bortianor in the Greater Accra Region, Asutsuare in the Central Region and Peki/Tsito in the Volta Region.

Conflicts claim many lives and retard several aspects of development. For women specifically, the impact of conflict leads to prolonged, devastating and chronic emotional trauma due to its generation of unplanned changes in the lives of women resulting in unpredictable and distorted daily routines.

It has however been widely observed in war torn societies that women often keep societies going. They maintain the social fabric, replace dislocated social services and tend the sick and the wounded. As a result, women are often the prime advocates of peace in conflicts and situations of conflicts.

Consequently the United Nations Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 1325 on Women, Peace and Security, enjoins Governments to ensure that women are enabled to play a full part in peace negotiations, in peace processes and in peace missions.

Ghana’s National Action Plan (2012-2014), for the implementation of UNSCR 1325 has therefore been designed to achieve the following parameters:

- Increase the participation of women in the promotion of peace and the resolution of conflicts in particular by supporting local peace initiatives of women.
- Prevent gender-based violence and protect the needs and rights of women and girls within the scope of Peace Missions, humanitarian operations, positions in the international UN and African and Regional and sub-regional organizations.
- Ensure a coherent approach to the implementation of 1325 and to promote a gender perspective in Peace and Security.
- Link the implementation of Resolution 1325 to the National Constitution, International and Regional instruments such as Beijing Platform for Action, the CEDAW Convention or Protocol to the African Charter on Human and People’s rights on the Rights of women in Africa, among others.

- Review national security and defence sector policies to ensure alignment with global and national commitments to gender equality.
- Evaluate all training materials to ensure that a gender perspective is incorporated
- Review conditions of service for peace-keepers to ensure that specific requirements for women such as clothing, equipment, monthly suppliers and separate facilities are addressed
- Establish a minimum target for deployment of women to peace-keeping.
- Establish gender units within Ministries of Defence, and Interior to, among other things to oversee the recruitment and deployment of women to peacekeeping.

The National Action Plan is based on the following three Pillars that would enable the country achieve these objectives:

- Protection and Promotion of the Human Rights of Women and Girls in Situations of Conflict and in Peace Support Operations
- Participation of Women in Conflict Prevention, Peace and Security Institutions and Processes
- Prevention of Violence against Women including Sexual, Gender-Based and Conflict related Violence

The outcome objectives for the implementation of the three pillars; “Participation”, “Prevention” and “Protection” on which the National Plan of Action is anchored include the following:

1. Ensure the rights, interests and special needs of women and girls are integrated in policy formulation and implementation as to enhance the protection of women and girls.
2. Ensure the full representation and active participation of women in conflict prevention, resolution, peace negotiation, mediation, crisis and security management at all levels of the Ghanaian Society.
3. Contribute to reduced conflict and the eradication of violence against women and girls in both private and public spheres.

To further enhance monitoring of the implementation process, an Inter-Ministerial body consisting of key Ministries including the Security Sector Institutions would be established to oversee the implementation of the National Action Plan in particular and Women, Peace and Security issues in general.

In order to ensure an effective coordination and implementation of the National Action Plan, a more systematic collaboration would be fostered between the Ministry of Women and Children’s Affairs (MOWAC) and other key Ministries including the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Regional Integration, Ministry of Defence and the Ministry of Interior. Mechanisms such as Monitoring and Evaluation, Reporting and Communication strategies has also been developed and would be employed as cross-cutting issues for each of the three pillars.

1.0 Introduction to the Ghana National Action Plan

On 31st October 2000, the United Nations Security Council (UNSCR) adopted at its 4213th meeting, Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace and Security. The Resolution (UNSCR 1325) recognizes the needs, rights, experiences and role of women in the areas of armed conflict, peacemaking and peace keeping and provides for the active participation of women in all aspects of conflict prevention, peace negotiations, peace building and post-war reconstruction.

The Resolution calls for countries and institutions involved in conflict and peace processes to adopt a gender perspective in all initiatives in conflict prevention, management and resolution through increased representation of women at all decision making levels; paying attention to the specific protection needs of women and girls in conflict, including refugees and increased support for women peace-builders, no impunity for war crimes against women, including gender-based violence; ensuring gender perspectives in peacekeeping operations as well as post-conflict processes and in reporting and on missions.

Before the adoption of UNSCR 1325, Ghana had actively participated in the practical implementation of the Resolution in several fora including UN Peace-keeping operations and those within the Africa Region. As such, Ghana has developed a comprehensive National Architecture for Peace in Ghana which is the first official national level programme for Peace building in Africa, and in consonance with the Resolution of African leaders at the first standing Conference on Stability, Security and Development in Africa, held in Durban in 2002.

By the adoption of UNSCR 1325, Member States were urged to ensure increased representation of women at all decision-making levels in national, regional and international institutions and also to put in place mechanisms for the involvement of women in the prevention, management, and resolution of conflicts. More importantly, UN Member States were called upon by the Security Council to adopt a gender perspective when negotiating and implementing peace agreements and to ensure that the rights and protection of women and girls as enshrined in international law are duly respected.

As a Member State, Ghana is obliged to develop a National Action Plan to enable it play its role in addressing peace and security issues, with regard to women and girls, through the implementation of the UNSCR 1325. Therefore, since 2008, Ghana, through the Ministry of Women and Children's Affairs, began the process of developing a National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325 in collaboration with other Ministries, Departments and Agencies (MDAs) as well as Civil Society Organizations (CSOs).

The National Action Plan consolidates all efforts to enhance women's position and role as decision-makers in conflict prevention, crisis management and peace building activities. It gives additional value to these activities in a more concrete, consistent and unambiguous manner and is in conformity with the implementation of the Beijing Platform for Action strategy objective on Women Peace and conflict resolution and management.

The effective implementation of the National Action Plan is dependent on the following factors:

- ▶ Political commitment towards implementation of activities of Ghana at international, regional and sub-regional levels.
- ▶ Specific activities to support women and girls in post-conflict regions.
- ▶ Specific human resources management with the aim to increase the representation of women among deployed personnel as well as to consistently pursue a “zero-tolerance policy” on sexual abuse and commercial sex.
- ▶ Specific recruitment policy/exercise to increase percentage of women in the military, police service and other security agencies.
- ▶ Review of national security and defence sector policies to ensure alignment with global and national commitment.
- ▶ Allocation of financial and material resources towards the implementation of the National Action Plan.

In addition, it is important that strong collaboration is forged with key Ministries and the Security Sector Institutions. It is based on the principle of such collaboration and collective ownership of the National Plan of Action that the “Foreward” of the Action Plan is jointly signed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Defence and the Ministry of Interior.

2.0 Overview of National Action Plan Development Process

1. An Information and Sensitization Seminar, was organized by the Ministry of Women and Children's Affairs (MOWAC) on 14th August 2008, to educate stakeholders on the United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women Peace and Security.
2. Participants at the Seminar included personnel from the Security Services, Ministries Departments and Agencies, Gender Desk Officers- NGOs, CBOs and other stakeholders.
3. In 2009, the Ministry further organized a Consultative Forum to finalize the process towards the preparation of a National Plan of Action. The Consultative Forum provided Ministries, Departments and Agencies (MDAs), which included the security sector services) as well as civil society organizations and Gender Desk Officers the opportunity to participate in the process and also provide their inputs into the Plan of Action.
4. A Validation Workshop was organized on 11 February 2010 to enable the Ministry, in collaboration with key stakeholders, including civil society organizations (CSOs), extensively discuss the indicators in the draft National Plan of Action for a wider inclusion of qualitative indicators. Wider qualitative measurement will lead to the attainment of a more accurate, more reliable and comprehensive measurement that will enhance a complete understanding of the impact of the implementation process. In addition, the workshop would enable the Ministry, in consultation with key stakeholders; prepare a budget for the effective implementation of the Plan of Action.
5. Three - Day Follow-up Meeting to finalize indicators and to prepare a budget for the National Action Plan from 9th to 11th September, 2010.
6. The Draft Action Plan was submitted to the Ministry of Justice & Attorney –General's Department for the incorporation of their inputs.

3.0 The Ghana National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325 (GHANAP 1325)

The GHANAP 1325 is a three-year implementation plan (2012-2014) that encompasses United Nations Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 1325 and best practices derived from indigenous initiatives relating to women, peace and security which Ghana has undertaken in the past. The GHANAP 1325 is based on three (3) pillars --Protection, Participation and Prevention-- which the Government of Ghana and its Strategic Partners, Civil Society and Development Partners must address in order to ensure UNSCR 1325 is fully and effectively implemented in a manner that brings about positive and transformative changes for Ghanaian women and girls in particular and the country in general. The GHANAP 1325 also includes a specific focus on actions relating to its implementation vis-a-vis coordination, popularisation, dissemination, resource mobilisation, monitoring and evaluation, and reporting.

Each of the three pillars of the GHANAP 1325 includes strategies/areas of intervention which revolve around policy and law formulation and/or review, networking and capacity building, sensitization, research, and monitoring and impact assessment. It also includes specific activities to be undertaken, indicators (both qualitative and quantitative) for monitoring, partners and timeline. It must be noted that the Ministry of Women and Children's Affairs (MoWAC) is identified as the primary stakeholder/lead agency for the implementation of the GHANAP. However, MoWAC will collaborate with other partners as listed in the GHANAP in this process.

Pillar One:

Protection and Promotion of the Human Rights of Women and Girls in Situations of Conflict and in Peace Support Operations

- UNSCR 1325 (Article 5): Expresses its willingness to incorporate gender perspective into peacekeeping operations, and urges the Secretary-General to ensure that where appropriate, field operations include a gender component.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 6): Requests the Secretary-General to provide to Member States training guidelines and materials on the protection, rights and the particular needs of women, as well as on the importance of involving women in all peacekeeping and peace building measures, invites Member States to incorporate these elements as well as HIV/AIDS awareness training into their national training programmes for military and civilian police personnel in preparation for deployment, and further requests the Secretary-General to ensure that civilian personnel of peacekeeping operations receive similar training.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 8): Calls on all actors involved, when negotiating and implementing peace agreements, to adopt a gender perspectives, including inter alia: (a) the special needs of women and girls during repatriation and resettlement and for rehabilitation, reintegration and post-conflict reconstruction; and (c) measures that ensure the protection of and respect for human rights of women and girls, particularly as they relate to the constitution, the electoral system, the police and the judiciary.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 12): Calls upon all parties to armed conflict to respect the civilian and humanitarian character of refugee camps and settlements, and to take into account the particular needs of women and girls, including in their design, and recalls its resolutions 1208 (1998) of 19 November 1998 and 1296 (2000) of 19 April 2000.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 13): Encourages all those involved in the planning for disarmament, demobilisation and reintegration to consider the different needs of female and male ex-combatants and take into account the needs of their dependants.

Outcome Objective:

To ensure the rights, interests and special needs of women and girls are integrated in policy and law formulation and implementation as to enhance the protection of women and girls from all forms of abuse, violence and discrimination.

Pillar Three:
Prevention of Violence against Women including Sexual, Gender-Based and Conflict related Violence

- UNSCR 1325 (Article 5): Expresses its willingness to incorporate gender perspective into peacekeeping operations, and urges the Secretary-General to ensure that where appropriate, field operations include a gender component.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 7): Urges Member States to increase their voluntary financial, technical and logistical support for gender-sensitive training efforts, including those undertaken by relevant funds and programmes, inter alia, the United Nations Fund for Women and United Nations Children's Fund, and by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and other relevant bodies.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 11): Emphasizes the responsibility of all States to put an end to impunity and to prosecute those responsible for genocide, crimes against humanity, and war crimes including those relating to sexual and other violence against women and girls, and in this regard stresses the need to exclude these crimes, where feasible from amnesty provisions.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 14): Reaffirms its readiness, whenever measures are adopted under Article 41 of the Charter of the United Nations, to give consideration to their potential impact on the civilian population, bearing in mind the special needs of women and girls, in order to consider appropriate humanitarian exemptions.
- UNSCR 1325 (Article 16): Invites the Secretary-General to carry out a study on the impact of armed conflict on women and girls, the role of women in peace building and the gender dimensions of peace processes and conflict resolution, and further invites him to submit a report to the Security Council on the results of this study, and to make this available to all Member States of the United Nations.

4.0Next Steps

The Ministry of Women and Children's Affairs, after the development of the draft GHANAP 1325 and the budget for the implementation of the Plan will undertake the following activities:

- Submit National Action Plan to the Office of the President and Cabinet for approval.
- Organize a Presidential Launch of GHANAP 1325
- Establish an Inter-Ministerial Committee to assist in monitoring the implementation of the National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325.
- Establish the Ghana Chapter of the ECOWAS Network on Women, Peace and Security.

5.0 Conclusion

The development and launch of the Ghana National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325 demonstrates the commitment and political will of the Government of Ghana to the advancement of women, peace and security issues in the country. With the focus on conflict prevention, international peace support operations and gender and sexual-based violence, the National Action Plan is a proactive rather than mere reactive measure that seeks to avert the likelihood of victimhood of women and girls in situations of humanitarian crisis. Its approach to addressing the root causes of violence and discrimination against women and girls is quite rejuvenating and relevant for ensuring the full and equal participation of women and girls in peace and security, the protection and promotion of human rights of women and girls, and the prevention and prosecution of sexual and gender-based violence.

The inclusive and highly participatory approach to the development of the GHANAP 1325 further demonstrates that for Ghana, issues of women, peace and security, is not merely a woman's issue. It is a national security issue; and one which warrants a joined-up, multi-sectoral partnership if it is to be adequately addressed. In this regard, the commitments that have been made towards its effective and accountable implementation by various Ministries, Departments, Agencies, International Partners and Civil Society Organisations are quite welcome. On its part, the Ministry of Women and Children's Affairs (MoWAC) will ensure it coordinates all implementation efforts in an effective manner as to ensure these commitments become a reality for the women and girls of Ghana.

With the launch of the Ghana National Action Plan on UNSCR 1325, the task has only just begun. Effective implementation is hinged on the allocation of the requisite resources and we envisage that the Government of Ghana will make good its commitment towards gender equality and women's empowerment by supporting the implementation of the GHANAP 1325 through budgetary allocation.

Finally we hope that the women and girls of Ghana will utilise this National Action Plan in ways that will bring about transformation and positive changes for them in the area of peace and security. Local ownership is crucial here and we enjoin all stakeholder and our partners to remain relentless in their effort to achieve the milestones enshrined in the GHANAP 1325.
