Message!

Since the establishment of the United Nations, Nepal has been expressing its solidarity and commitment to UN conventions, treaties and policies in line with its national needs and obligations. As a member state, it is also the duty and responsibility of Nepal to implement each resolution adopted by the Security Council. In this regard and in the context of post conflict transitional period of Nepal, I am happy that Nepal was able to adopt the National Action Plan (NAP) on implementation of the United Nations Security Council Resolutions 1325 and 1820 two years back. The plan is now in its rigorous implementation phase.

As a result of the contribution made by the United Nations in Nepal’s peace process, the essence of the resolutions on Women, Peace and Security is reflected in the Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA). The development of the National Action Plan on implementation of the UNSCRs 1325 & 1820 is also a result of this commitment. Several national and international development partners have been providing financial and technical support since the CPA was signed as well as from the very initial stage of developing the NAP. I would also like to acknowledge the contribution made by civil society organizations working on women’s issues while developing the NAP as well as in taking the implementation forward.

I would like to express my happiness at the implementation of the NAP taking place with the effort from all the concerned stakeholders at the central as well as district level including relevant ministries and their line agencies and local district agencies. But it is essential to localize the NAP by integrating it into the very process of developing local district and village development plans. Against this backdrop, this Localization Guideline prepared by Saathi, an organization working on women’s rights, with support from Global Network of Women Peacebuilders in close collaboration and consultation with the Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction holds great significance. I strongly believe that this will greatly help in localization of the NAP.

This Guideline is envisaged to be an important complementary document for the implementation of the NAP. It will help District Coordination Committee in bringing uniformity in program implementation. I also anticipate that the civil society will make necessary initiative to take this Guideline to all the concerned stakeholders and contribute in making optimum use of it.

Finally, I would like to request all government, nongovernment and civil society organizations to extend necessary support to ensure the success of the Guideline in localizing the NAP by integrating it into district and village development plans.

Mr. Top Bahadur Rayamajhi
Minister
Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction
Message!

The Government of Nepal adopted the National Action Plan on Implementation of the UNSCRs 1325 and 1820 on 1st February 2011. In these two years’ period, necessary infrastructures for the implementation of the NAP have been established and as a result the implementation work has accelerated. At the central level, there have been several programs implemented separately as well as in partnership with government and non-government organizations. In addition to this through the Nepal Peace Trust Fund additional fund specifically for the implementation of the NAP apart from regular budget has been allocated and made available to concerned ministries such as Home, Defense, Women Children and Social Welfare, Federal Affairs and Local development, Law and Justice and Peace and Reconstruction. Consequently, several programs are being implemented by these ministries at the central and district level.

At present the majority of the ongoing programs are being implemented at the central level with comparatively fewer at the district level. Therefore, critical and additional effort is required to maximize programs at the district as well as to take it further to the village level. Until and unless the NAP is localized i.e. integrated into local planning process and local resources are mobilized, the target community will not be able to benefit and the goal of the NAP cannot be achieved. In this context, to achieve the effective implementation of the NAP by integrating it into district and village development planning process, this “National Action Plan on Implementation of United Nations Security Council Resolutions 1325 & 1820 Localization Guideline, 2013” has been developed. I am confident that this will prove useful in integrating the NAP into local plan formulation process. Further in order to address the urgent concerns of conflict affected women and girls it is necessary to simultaneously work with both the bottom up and top down approach. This Guideline, I hope, will be helpful in this regard.

I take this opportunity to thank Saathi, especially its Executive Chair, Ms. Bandana Rana, for undertaking the necessary collaboration with the Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction and providing essential technical support and coordination throughout the process of developing this Guideline. My special thanks to - Joint Secretary Sadhuram Sapkota of the Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction for his active contribution in this effort and Resource Team Members Mr. Ganga Dutta Awasthi, Mr. Ramesh Adhikari and Mr. Kiran Prasad Dhungel. My thanks also go to all District Coordination Committee members, local officials and community people who participated actively in DCC and VDC level workshops and provided invaluable comments and feedback. It is only with those inputs that the Guideline was able to come out in its present form. Last but not the least, on behalf of MoPR I would like to express my heartiest gratitude to Global Network of Women Peacebuilders and its international coordinator Mavic Carbrera Balleza for the technical and financial support.
Finally, the success of this Guideline lies in its due application; therefore, I urge all the concerned stakeholders, especially, District Coordination Committee and Municipality and Village Development Committee (VDC), to make the maximum use of this Guideline for successful localization of the NAP in order to ensure that the dividends of the implemented programs reaches the most needy women and girls.

Thank you.

Secretary
Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction
